Friends gained momentum breezing through another successful season by adding story lines about Phoebe giving birth, Ross and Emily's divorce, and Monica and Chandler's new relationship.

Cameron Diaz turned heads and stomachs in the summer surprise blockbuster There's Something About Mary with Ben Stiller and Matt Dillon. There was also a huge demand for the movie's scene-stealing Border terrier in a cast. Twentieth Century Fox made only 820 of the stuffed dog promotional items. The hit movie made more than $220 million.

The comedy Shakespeare in Love, starring Ben Affleck and Gwyneth Paltrow, celebrated Shakespeare's genius and won Golden Globes for Best Screenplay and Best Comedy Film.

Audiences and critics alike responded to the brilliant characters, witty wordplay, and physical humor found in Frasier. The show won an Emmy for Outstanding Comedy Series and Kelsey Grammer and David Hyde Pierce both won Emmys for their portrayals of the Crane brothers.

Adam Sandler's movie career soared. He followed the success of The Wedding Singer with Waterboy, a comedy that made $122 million.

The WB's coming-of-age-drama, Felicity, drew high ratings among 18 to 34-year-olds in upper income households.
Jim Carrey won a Golden Globe for best actor in The Truman Show. The movie was also nominated for three Oscars.

Dawson's Creek continued to keep the attention of viewers with its handsome cast and controversial subject matter.

Saving Private Ryan gave a graphic account of the violence of World War II and earned Steven Speilberg Golden Globes for best director and best film. The blockbuster took in $188 million the first time, and was re-released in February. It received an Oscar nomination for best picture.

*Fast-talking Chris Tucker proved himself to be star material as a Los Angeles Police detective in Rush Hour. He teamed with Jackie Chan in this action comedy that made more than $139 million.*

Fox's Ally McBeal remained a favorite for its offbeat humor and received a Golden Globe Best Comedy Series Award.

Top 10 movies of 1998:

1. Saving Private Ryan
2. There's Something About Mary
3. The Truman Show
4. Shakespeare in Love
5. A Bug's Life
6. The Waterboy
7. Rush Hour
8. Armageddon
9. Lethal Weapon 4
10. Enemy of the State

Other news:

- Gus Van Sant recreated Alfred Hitchcock's 1960 Psycho with Vince Vaughn as Norman Bates and Anne Heche playing the shower victim.
- Favorites that continued to earn high ratings included Just Shoot Me, the X-Files, Dharma and Greg, Touched By An Angel, Spin City, JAG, and Everybody Loves Raymond.
- New shows such as Jesse, That 70s Show, Sports Night, and Will and Grace were popular with fans and critics.
- We bid farewell to one of TV's greatest shows, Seinfeld. The last episode aired May 14.
- Michael J. Fox walked away from the Golden Globe Awards as best actor in a comedy/musical series. Fox revealed earlier in the year that he had been suffering from Parkinson's disease for the past seven years.
- The 1st annual TV Guide Awards, where winners were chosen by viewers in a mail-in survey, was held in February.
- TV's most eligible bachelor, Today's Matt Lauer, tied the knot with Annette Roque, Ethan Hawke and Uma Thurman married May 1 in Manhattan. Home Alone star, 17-year-old Macaulay Culkin, said "I do" to Rachel Miner, also 17.
George Clooney left the very successful drama ER to pursue more movie opportunities. He plans to produce some television shows and make guest appearances on ER next season.

The summer blockbuster Armageddon was well received by movie audiences. Bruce Willis, Liv Tyler, Ben Affleck, and a killer asteroid kept audiences on the edge of their seats.

Fans crowded theaters to see Mel Gibson and Danny Glover together once again in Lethal Weapon 4. Hong Kong martial arts star Jet Li made his American debut in the film while comedian Chris Rock added comic relief as Glover’s future son-in-law.

Hollywood put the spotlight on insects this year with the release of A Bug’s Life and Ant: A Bug’s Life took in more than $148 million, and opened with the highest grossing Thanksgiving weekend in history.

Phil Hartman, best known for Saturday Night Live and News Radio, died. Puppeteer Shari Lewis and funny man Flip Wilson lost their battles with cancer. We said goodbye to Roy Rogers, Gene Autrey, and TV’s well-known dad, Robert Young. Gene Siskel, of the movie critic team Siskel & Ebert, died in February.

Sarah Michelle Gellar’s career skyrocketed. TV’s Buffy the Vampire Slayer mixed typical teenage crises with supernatural deception and horror. Gellar starred in two movies, Simply Irresistible and Cruel Intentions.

Today’s Katie Couric battled to educate Americans about colon cancer after losing her husband to the deadly disease last year. Couric’s place at NBC remained firm with a $7 million contract.

After more than 10 years of marriage, Demi Moore and Bruce Willis called it quits.

Rosie O’Donnell’s live daily talk show continued to win the hearts of viewers. It won an Emmy for Best Talk Show as well as a TV Guide Award.

This year's cross country team was a hard working collection of newcomers and veterans, all of whom improved greatly throughout the season. The hard work and fun that the team carried throughout the season was unforgettable. Although there were some bad times, they were soon forgotten by the good times they shared as a team. The victory against Watertown's rival was the most memorable moment of the season. They had beat Belmont by a large margin which won't be forgotten. Our season together was very successful. We hope it will continue to grow and improve in the future.

On your mark..........

Although the girls cross country team would have appreciated the bus load of fans that was consistently absent from their meets, its eleven members agree that this season they found success in supporting each other. As a small team, the girls developed friendships as well as good form while striving to achieve their personal best times. Led on the course by senior Lisa Fanjoy and junior Debi Psychoghiios and off the course by co-captains Martha Andriolatos and Julie McCaffrey, the team particularly enjoyed races on cool mornings at Franklin Park. Coach Sul’s speeches, teammates cheers, Dum-Dums, carrots, and an occasional run through a bear cage kept all motivated and in good spirits. The most memorable moment of the season came during the Middlesex League meet. Decked out in French braids, team members worked together to pass one opponent after another before snapping the seasons final photos. From the tears that signified the seasons end, the girls discussed the correlation between sprints and personal bests and wandered who would bring the TP to the zoo next year. This season, the girls cross country team was characterized by a balance between fun and hard work. The seniors company and advice will be missed as the rest of the team “gets in gear” for next fall.
With a season that was better than the previous years, the boy’s ice hockey team made the improvements that were needed to play a successful season. With a record of five wins, thirteen losses and two ties, the hockey team gives credit to their most outstanding player, Joe Chaisson and the All Stars: Anthony Fantasia, Mike Cuilla and John Calleva. With thoughts of making the tournament this season, the hockey team was motivated by coaches Dean Sacca, Jaime Vanezia and Mike Vanezia.

This season the WHS girls basketball team made the tournament for the first time in eleven years. With twenty-nine total players participating on the team, the basketball team's most memorable moment was when they beat Belmont in the last game of the season. What kept senior Mandy Cormier motivated was the fact that it was her last year playing basketball and she was determined to make the tournament. We are all very happy her motivation paid off in the end.

As a new team with only two returning starters, Watertown’s field hockey won the Middlesex Championships and went to the Division Two North Finals. The field hockey team accomplished a lot this season. The team goal at first, was to get better as a team and learn basic skills. As the season began, the team was actually winning games with young players who were still learning. The whole team worked hard and shocked many people with their high level of success.

Lisa Fanjoy's Valedictory speech.

Dr. Dias, Dr. Stavros, members of the school committee, Dr. Cavanaugh, faculty and staff of Watertown High School, parents and guardians, family and friends, and members of the class of 1999:

I was dreaming when I wrote this. Forgive me if it goes astray. Nearly every member of this graduating class recognizes the opening lines of "1999," a song we collectively love for obvious reasons. Prince wrote its lines in 1982, the year after many members of the class of '99 were born, and if today's world were as he envisioned it, I would be speaking to my classmates under a purple sky over an impending nuclear holocaust. Little did the musician know that during the first 18 years of our lives, the world would change drastically, such that national leaders would work cooperatively to bring the Berlin Wall and the threat posed by communism, and members of diverse communities would realize the importance of considering others, whether they stood next to them on the job or in line at the supermarket.

For the past 13 years, I have loved and learned from those who have stood next to me. I speak. Members of the students who, together, form Watertown High School's class of 1999. I've been acquainted with many of my classmates since our elementary school days of coloring and nap time. Through our dramatic reenactment of recess kickball, the pressure to color only within the lines, and the seemingly life-altering decision surrounding what act to perform in the school talent show, we managed to avoid burnout and discover something of who we were as individuals and as members of a larger group. Having completed the first phase of our education, we moved on.

In Middle School, my classmates and I traded a single teacher and common classrooms for many teachers and private lockers big enough for some of us to live inside. The novel homework period became a time for deliberation and decisions, a time to address burning questions such as which couples were sure to marry, which athletes were sure to make it to the pros, and which of the new faces around us were sure to become those of friends. With aching arms, we helped these friends fill endless sheets of graph paper after the infuriating gym detector had basted them. We discovered something more of ourselves and of the world around us, and by speaking out on behalf of our beliefs and establishing programs like Respect for Differences, we came to realize that "coloring outside the lines" can be the most rewarding experience of all. At the ripe age of 13, we attended our 8th grade semiformal. Handsome and sophisticated, we felt ready to move on.

Full of anxiety, my classmates and I arrived at Watertown High School, a place where everything except the lockers seemed to be on a grander scale. We quickly realized that with a larger building and larger students came larger opportunities. We could select a variety of courses, from art and auto to psychology and statistics. Through sports teams and clubs, we further developed our identities as individuals and as members of the class of 1999.

We look back now on the memories of our 4 years together and think that perhaps they have gone too fast. I'll always remember Friday night football games and decorating pumpkins with Mr.-Hi-/Y, getting decked out for spirit week and for the proms. Who could forget the musical "The Wizard of Oz" and the moments when members of the football team showed their strength by ripping off their shirts?

We have ended our days at Watertown High School by celebrating another one's strengths at Awards Night, presenting our class gift, being together at senior skip day and at the banquet, and painting a farewell message on the wall at Victory Field. We've also come to realize, particularly in these final weeks, how much we will truly miss our classmates as members of the class of 1999, we will go on to college, the military, or the work force. No matter what our new experiences have been, we have forever been influenced by the knowledge, friendships, and memories entrusted to us during our developing years at Watertown High School. Tonight we make our final memory at graduation and the all-night party, united in our unique status as the last class to graduate from this high school during this millennium.

Prince encouraged us to "party like it's 1999." This evening, we celebrate because it is 1999. Because, rather than fear an ending, we anticipate a beginning. We offer thanks to our families and friends and to the school personnel whose support has always been a vital part of our success. In this changing and changing world, we feel confident to move on again. Prepared for whatever may be ahead, we welcome the adventure.

And members of the class of 1999, I wish you all the best of luck and success in your future endeavors and look forward to being together with you again at our five-year reunion.

The teacher of the year award goes to Mrs. Manning.

Joel Breakstone's Salutatorian Speech.

Dr. Dias, Dr. Cavanaugh, Mr. Stavros, members of the school committee, faculty and staff of the high school, parents, guardians, family, and the Class of 1999:

High school and the years ahead can be very frightening times. During high school there were fears of speaking in front of your peers, that fear still persists. I assure you, fear of rumors swirling, of tripping at an inopportune moment "I stopped worrying after the first few dozen falls", fear of bombs, of consequences for mistakes made, of college decisions, and perhaps, most importantly, fear of what people thought of you. These fears could dominate a person or simply be a passing nuisance. They were there when you considered raising your hand but thought better of it. They were there after you wore that ridiculous outfit freshman year. They were there when you could see people talking and pointing toward you. They were there when the volleyball bounced off your head in gym class. And they will still be there as we move on this evening.

T.S. Eliot's "The Love Song of J. Alfred Prufrock" is a poem about a middle-aged man similar to consumed by fears. He has lived his life considering what he should do without actually doing it. If ever there were a role model from whom one could learn what NOT to do, this man is the one. From my experiences we can understand several things.

First, be decisive and stand by your decisions. Prufrock, by contrast, continually vacillates. "Time for you and time for me. And time yet for a hundred indecisions. And for a hundred visions and revisions, Before the taking of a toast and tea."

Prufrock is always second guessing himself, rereading and changing what he has already decided. Second, be spontaneous and adventurous. Instead, Prufrock speaks of having "measured out my life with coffee spoons."

And, finally, we learn from Prufrock's negative examples to have the courage to change or at least try to change the world without fear of what others may say. Displaying just the opposite behavior, Prufrock does not have courage to be different. He is always concerned about what others are saying of him. He says: "And indeed there will be time to wonder. "Do I dare?" and, "Do I dare?" Time to turn back and descend the stair, with a bald spot in the middle of my hair (they will say, 'how his hair is growing thin!') My morning coat, my collar mounting firmly to the chin, my necktie rich and modest, but assayed by a simple pin, they will say, 'But how his arms and legs are thin!"

What I would say to you is this: Dare to disturb the universe. Even if it is your only universe, your own life. Take a chance occasionally. Don't live of coulda's and shoulda's. Today, it may seem like we have all the time in the world, but don't allow your dreams to fall by the wayside as time marches on. Don't put things off until it is too late (although I did start this speech a little later then I should have).

Finally, prove to the world that we, as young adults, are not an anesthetic, uninterested, disengaged group, but rather individuals who are capable of positive and creative contributions to our society. However things turn out, it should be a fun ride. Enjoy it.
